Wilmington Social News.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
WILMINGTON, N. C., January 4.—Many delightful events, receptions and dances, marked the New Year's night, but none was of more elaborate nature or enjoyable character than a masked ball given by the young ladies of Wilmington society New Year's night. It was the debutante dance, and was a brilliant success. It took place in the large Masonic Temple ballroom. All the ladies appeared in masks up to a certain hour, and this alone afforded much merriment. Favors of novel and beautiful nature were presented and a supper followed at midnight. During the early part of the evening the German was led by Misses Florence Kidder and Bessie Gore, and later Mr. Clayton Giles, Jr., leader of the Larioso Club, directed the dance.
Another brilliant success of the week was the Christmas German given by the L'Agile Club, led by Mr. Paul Cantwell, the club leader. The dance was also in honor of the Ashe-Stockard wedding, which took place recently, and in large and beautiful floral letters the two names appeared at one end of the large ballroom. The visitors were Miss Elizabeth Latimer, of New York; Misses DuBois and Meriwether, of Virginia; and Misses Eoylan, of Raleigh; Foster, of Graham; Henderson, of Salisbury; Lamb, of Williamston; Frake, of Winston; and Hon. of Oxford, N. C.; Captain Mould, of Fort Caswell, and Mr. Thomas Hill, of Philadelphia.
Thursday night another ball in celebration of the New Year took place, and was given by Howard Relief Company taking place in the handsome club building, corner of Front and Dock streets, and at midnight an elegant supper was served. Still another dance in honor of 1908 was given by Harmony Circle at the club's handsome apartments on South Front

Chatham Social News

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
CHATHAM, VA., January 4.—The second German of the holidays was given in the Town Hall Monday night, and though not as largely attended as the one on Wednesday night preceding, a large number of couples were present and enjoyed the evening until a very late hour. Mr. J. Stanley Oliver, of Danville, with Miss Edna Hunt, led several very pretty figures, which were gone through with much ease by the large number participating. Those present were: Miss Garland Dillard with J. P. Hunt, Jr.; Miss Lizzie Reid with Dr. R. T. Cray, of Elba; Miss Lillian of Lynchburg with Leslie Reid; Miss Blanche Fitzgerald with George Cressy, Miss Jean Page with Guy Fitzgerald; Miss Virginia Hale with W. P. Coles; Miss Pittman with E. S. Reid, Jr.; Miss Pauline Duncan with J. E. Lanier; Miss Annie Davis with J. S. Sande; Miss Belle Oliver with Eugene Jacobs; Miss Susan Young with W. E. Goolsby; Miss Bettie Moon with John Lee, of Danville; Miss Anna Wallace Noel with Mr. Cox; Mr. and Mrs. R. I. Overby; chaperons, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Young, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Noel and Mrs. Page.
Misses Virginia Hale, Bessie Dillard and Kate White entertained their friends at the home of Miss Kate White Tuesday night. The amusement of the evening was a geographical contest, in which the States of the Union were identified by pieces of paper resembling them. Mr. John Cooper, of Danville, guessed the greatest number correctly, and was presented with a landscape painting in water colors done by Miss Virginia Hale. Delicious refreshments, supplied by one of the Danville caterers, were served, in which the young ladies were assisted by Mrs. W. A. Fitzpatrick, of Bedford City, sister of Miss Kate White.
The small boys entertained their little girl friends with a party in the Town Hall Tuesday night. Numerous games were enjoyed for some time, closing the pleasure of the evening with serving of refreshments.
Rev. and Mrs. W. D. Barr are spending several days with their son, L. E. Barr, at Lexington, N. C.
Messrs. R. C. and G. H. Vaden, Jr., who have been spending the holidays at their home at Galveston, returned to Richmond Tuesday night to resume their studies at the University College of Medicine and Richmond College.

Miss Louise Tate returned this week from visiting friends in Bedford City.

New Year's at Hollins.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
HOLLINS, VA., January 4.—The New Year came in here with the firing of guns and the ringing of the college bell and to the sound of "Praise God from Whom All Blessings Flow," sung by the students and faculty upon the main entrance. Congratulations and best wishes followed on all sides. Thus closed a unique and pleasant evening. The whole college community, as Christmas finds it, a motley of the faculty and some thirty of the students, had spent the evening in the parlor. After games and refreshments, a pleasant entertainment was given by Mr. Joseph A. Turner and Professor Eric Rath. Professor Rath is a musician of distinguished ability and Mr. Turner is an inimitable mimic, so between them they kept their audience in roars of laughter for more than an hour. There was first a scene from the Jamestown Exposition, and then an extravaganza, "Mrs. Hays's Mind Reading," and then a burlesque on several famous personages and finally a series of acted "moving pictures." During the evening prizes were won in a guessing contest by Miss Mary C. Pleasants and Miss Louise B. Murphy.
The Christmas has passed pleasantly at Hollins. A smaller number of girls remained over before, but they have not failed to enjoy themselves. Besides their boxes, private Christmas trees and games and entertainments from night to night in the parlor, there have been receptions, walks and excursions to Roanoke.
Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Turner and Professor and Mrs. M. Estes Cooke have kept "open house," and on Monday Professor and Mrs. Eric Rath received all the students and faculty at their beautiful home, "Rathaus," for an afternoon tea. To-day, to-morrow and the next day Rev. Dr. George Braxton Taylor receives the students informally at the "parsonage."
The Hon. Baptist Sunday school entertainment this year was an afternoon of stereoscopic pictures. The texts of "Jack the Giant Killer," the wanderings of "Alice in Wonderland" and the genial humor of the "Yule Before Christmas" charmed the children. The first and second of these stories were read by Mrs. Eric Rath as the pictures appeared, and the last story by Miss Phyllis Hayward. Professor M. Estes Cooke, the superintendent of the school, had charge of the

Twyman Social News

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
TWYMAN MILL, VA., January 4.—The Sunday-school of Good Hope Baptist Church had a beautiful Christmas tree on the 27th. There were two trees loaded with presents. The church was decorated with evergreens, and the whole made a beautiful appearance.
Mr. James F. Strother, of Barton Heights, spent Christmas with his aunt, Mrs. D. T. Tinsley, who gave an entertainment in honor of him. A good many were present, and all seem to have had a grand time.
The weather was springlike all through Christmas.
